Washington, D. In the main the new law prohibits civil marriages for Catholics, and declares unions in the church invalid in future if either the bride or bridegroom is not a Catholic. All marriages shall be performed by a priest duly authorized and before at least two witnesses. The principals in a marriage must furnish correct information as to their baptism and the ceremony must be performed in the bride's own parish or by some one delegated by the priest of that parish.

Remarkable Achievements of San Francisco in Recovering
From Blow.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

San Francisco, Cal., April 18.—Two years ago today occurred the earthquake followed by the great conflagration that laid a large section of San Francisco in waste, cost 452 lives and resulted in property damage amounting to over $300,000,000. In 21 hours the destruction was so great that scarcely a building in the business portion of the city was left standing with walls intact.

Two years have wrought Aladdin-like changes in the appearance of San Francisco. Rising from the ashes before the smoke of the disaster had cleared away, she finds herself today largely rebuilt in an improved style, her business prosperity recovered, and her people preparing a joyous welcome for the greatest naval fleet that has ever visited her harbor.

Ambassador Whitfield Reid, after his recent visit here, eloquently described the city's achievement when he said: "There are many things in the history of this country of which an American is intensely proud, but I protest that among them all there has been nothing in 40 odd years, since the greatest civil war of modern times, of which we have more right to be proud than of San Francisco today."

NEWS FORECAST OF
THE COMING WEEK

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
Three State Conventions This Week.
—Fleet Will Reach San Pedro.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—The coming week holds the promise of many big news events, the progress of the Presidential campaign and the entertainment of the battleship fleet on the Pacific coast occupying first place.

The American battleship fleet, arriving at San Pedro (Los Angeles) today, will remain in the vicinity of the southern California metropolis during the whole of the coming week. A program of splendid entertainment has been provided for officers and men, the chief feature of which will be a magnificent banquet Monday night at the Alexandra hotel.

Events of political interest during the week will be the republican state convention in New Hampshire to elect delegates to Chicago, the democratic state conventions in Illinois and New Jersey to elect delegates to the Denver convention, and republican county primaries in Kentucky which are expected to show whether that state favors Taft or Fairbanks for the presidency. A state election will be held in Louisiana Tuesday to confirm the choice of the recent democratic primary for governor and other state officers.

Reports are in circulation that the Corey administration will be attacked at the annual meeting of the United States Steel Corporation at Jersey City on Monday.

Other events of public interest will be the centennial celebration of the Roman Catholic diocese of Philadelphia, the annual session of the Conference for Education in the South at Memphis, the meeting of the National Society, D. A. R., in Washington, D. C., and the Laymen's conference of the Southern Methodist church at Chattanooga, at which Ambassador Bryan and W. J. Bryan are among the scheduled speakers.

Shark and Porpoise Start For Sub
Bay Where They Will Form Defense.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, April 18.—With the Shark and the Porpoise, two of the submarines of the First Torpedo Boat Flotilla, back to their docks, the big naval collier Caesar left the Brooklyn navy yard today enroute for the Philippines, there to launch the submarines in Subic Bay, where they will become an important part of the Corregidor Island defenses, guarding Manila. The two submarines rest in cradles so constructed on the deck of the collier that they will hold the little boats safely, no matter how high the waves or how fierce the winds.

It would be only a matter of a few minutes to launch the little vessels should that be necessary between New York and Manila. This is made possible by an arrangement by which the inner sides of the cradles can be packed up to form ways, over which the submarines may slide back into the sea, in exactly the same manner that big battleships are launched at the shipbuilding yards.

of Archdiocese of Philadelphia.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—Roman Catholics of this city are looking forward with great interest to the centennial celebration of the archdiocese of Philadelphia, which is to be held during the coming week, and which will bring here some of the most noted churchmen in the country. The pontifical mass, which will be the great feature of the event, will be celebrated in the Cathedral Wednesday. A banquet will be given at the Bellevue-Stratford Thursday night, at which Attorney General Bonaparte, Justice White of the United States Supreme Court, Governor Stuart and other notables will speak.

Among the eminent prelates who have accepted invitations to participate in the celebration are Mgr. Fenton, the apostolic delegate to the United States, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Farley of New York, Bishop Gibbons of Oregon, Bishop McFaul of Trenton, Bishop Shanahan of Harrisburg, Bishop Carney of Altoona, Bishop Hoban of Scranton, and Bishop Flynn of Erie.

Events of political interest during the week will be the republican state convention in New Hampshire to elect delegates to Chicago, the democratic state conventions in Illinois and New Jersey to elect delegates to the Denver convention, and republican county primaries in Kentucky which are expected to show whether that state favors Taft or Fairbanks for the presidency. TO OPEN NEW LINES
THROUGH THE SOUTH

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
Illinois Central to Start Through Freight Service to New Orleans.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Birmingham, Ala., April 18.—The Illinois Central has fixed upon tomorrow as the date for establishing its new through freight service between Chicago, New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis and this city. This is to be done over the rails of the Hayleeville extension which for some time has been in operation for the handling of local freight shipments between Corinth, Miss., and Hayleeville, the trucks of the Northern Alabama from Hayleeville to Jasper, Ala., and over the track of the Frisco system from the latter point to Birmingham.

The Hayleeville extension is only eighty-four miles long, but it is attracting more attention than any similar stretch of track in the South because of its strategic importance. It becomes not only the connecting link between the more important connections of the Illinois Central and this city, but it is also the forerunner of a service extending from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. The Harriman interests control the Union Pacific and the Illinois Central and have lately acquired the Central of Georgia, the former line furnishes facilities for handling business from the Pacific coast to a connection with the Illinois Central.

Through the Hayleeville extension and the subsequent trackage agreements with the Frisco system, the Illinois Central not only achieves the long desired object of participating in the large volume of iron, steel, coal and other traffic originating in the Birmingham district, but, through the close relations established between itself and the Central of Georgia by virtue of common ownership, or control the Illinois Central has also achieved the long coveted object of securing another outlet at tidewater at Savanna.

Twelfth Annual Marathon of Boston
A. A. Occurs Next Monday.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Boston, Mass., April 18.—All arrangements have been completed for holding the twelfth annual Marathon run under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association next Monday. The annual Patriots' Day fixture here is the greatest event of its kind in the world. It has always been international in its scope, and has numbered among its entries in years past the best men from the United States, Canada and numerous foreign countries. Interest in the event this year has been heightened by the decision of the American Committee of the Olympic Games to hold the trials for the American entries for the Marathon run in England in connection with the annual Marathon of the Boston Athlete Association.

The B. A. A. Marathon course from Ashland to Boston gives a thorough trial, uphill and down, with sufficient level stretches to afford breathing spaces. It is difficult enough for hardy runners and the winner will richly deserve to be one of the American team in England. The B. A. A. Marathon is recognized here and abroad as the premier annual long-distance footrace, and its winner each year is hailed as practically the world's champion. It has developed many wonderful runners in the past, and only last year brought international fame to Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, who established a new record and since has achieved additional fame and some notoriety over the disputes as to his amateur status.

JAPANESE SEEKS TO ENLIST.

Runs-Away When Asked to Take Oath of Allegiance.

Milwaukee, Apr. 18.—H. Hamashi, small and brown, who seemed to be too familiar with military examinations, started a spy scare by making application to enlist in the United States marine corps at the recruiting office here.

"I am a Filipino," said Hamashi, smiling. "I came with Filipino village to America, and have been with circus."

"Sure you're not a Jap?" asked Sergeant Younce.

"No—not Nipponese," answered the man.

His evident resentment at the term "Jap," and his appearance caused Sergeant Younce to inquire further. The man said his father was a Filipino and his mother Chinese. Finally, when confronted by a corporal who had seen him in a Japanese store Hamashi admitted that he was Japanese and that he was trying to enlist so as to get to the Philippine islands.

"Well, then," said Sergeant Younce, "you'll have to take the oath of allegiance." He reached for a book. As he did so Hamashi fled.

BLACKMAILER IS CAPTURED.

Minnesota Man Taken by Ruse of Deputy Sheriff.

Bemidji, Minn., Apr. 18.—August Kisser, a young man living on a farm five miles west of Bemidji, was arrested at the point of a gun at midnight Thursday night, when he attempted to carry out a bold scheme of blackmail.

Kisser has confessed that he was the author of an anonymous letter sent to George B. Thompson, in which he demanded that a sum of money be left for him at a lonely spot west of the city. Deputy sheriff arranged with Thompson that he should apparently carry out the order of the blackmailer, the officers to lie in wait for the man who came for the package. This was done and Kisser was captured.

Fire in South Stillwater, Minn. Stillwater, Minn., Apr. 18.—Fire in the village of South Stillwater, which started in a saloon early Friday, destroyed six buildings of considerable importance and three smaller structures. For a time the whole town was threatened with destruction on account of the strong wind which was blowing. The financial loss is about $25,000.

Senator La Follette Better. Washington, Apr. 18.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, who has been confined to his room for two weeks by illness, is much improved, and expects to be in attendance upon the regular sessions of the senate in a very few days.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"You may think a million dollars would turn up the sunny side, You may think a round of pleasure would bring happiness dented;

And you may be right, my brother, but a better, simpler way is to look with kindly humor on the things of every day.

"If you look through stained glass windows all the world seems that ed so;

If you look through eyes heart-lighted all the world will seem aglow; You'll see beauty in life's pathos, sweetness in its sadness, find life is seen but not reflected from your own heart and your mind.

"Wealth is truly worth the having lots of pleasing things it buys, But it cannot ever brighten what is seen with clouded eyes.

And to make your whole life pleasant—yes, and other lives—the way is to look with kindly humor on the things of every day."

The Kansas City Times is responsible for this choice sentiment, so well expressed, on "Kindly Humor." There is found in every community a limited class of people who possess the happy faculty of seeing the funny side of life. They are the happiest people in existence because their vision is never blunted, and their hearts never burdened by the daily round of little annoyances which fill the cup of the average mortal to overflowing.

This class of humor-loving people manage to get some pleasure out of a funeral, unless the departed is a loved one and the loss a personal loss. One of them said the other day:

"Did you notice the old man among the mourners, how hard he tried to look sad because the wife who had shaven him for years, and whom he had shamefully neglected, had gone?"

"The old skunk will probably erect a monument dedicated to 'My Beloved Mary, May she rest in peace, when everybody knows that love and rest and peace were strangers to her earthly life."

The atmosphere in which this class of people live, is a wholesome atmosphere untainted by suspicion. They look on the bright side of things, content to let other people dwell in the shadow.

There are some wretches who possess the happy faculty of humor, desirous, and their portrayal of character is usually true to life, and more effective than the best efforts of the more serious scribbler.

When congress convened last December the nation was all stirred up over the currency question, and almost every congressman went to Washington with a pet measure for currency reform. A humorous writer for "Puck" thus described what happened to one of these zealous advocates:

"Now, Jones was a man of a marvelous mind, To which nothing was foreign or strange, He could talk by the hour, with singular power.

On topics the widest in range, There was nothing in heaven and nothing on earth.

That batted his toppling until He rashly one day, in a confident way,

Attempted the Currency Bill.

"The Truff to Jones was as plain as a pike."

He threaded its mazes with ease; While the weight of the stars and the ditchies on Mars.

Were trifles for afternoon tea, The color-line problem, the armor-belt row,

He discussed with exceptional skill,

But his brain had a storm when he tried to inform.

His friends on the Currency Bill.

"That got him! His mind was reduced to a pulp.

All crumpled the cells of his brain.

They took him away in a wagon one day.

To the place for the cureless insane.

Here he sits on a bench and makes figures and things,

And his friends may obtain, if they will,

From this bug-fancier a remarkably clear

Account of the Currency Bill."

The most of us are destined to go through life on a very moderate income, and so, as we step aside for the buzz-wagons to go by, a feeling of envy very naturally possesses us, yet the fact remains that money in itself can purchase almost everything but happiness.

There appeared in the New York papers, not long ago, a list of the wines and liquors consumed daily by Mrs. Howard Gould, representing a cost many times greater than the average income, but this extravagant waste of money developed habits which broke up the home and culminated in divorce. Money failed to bring happiness in this home, and the records of similar failures are numerous.

The most of us have all the money that we are capable of handling intelligently, and while we might resent the suggestion that we need a guardian, the amount invested in gold brick schemes of various kinds, indicates that the average mind is not financially well developed. Some wag expressed this sentiment, the other day, about the lucky man:

"The man without a dollar is quite a lucky chap."

No one can come to borrow.

If he has none on tap;

No one can ship him presents.

And make him pay the freight;

No one can sell him gold bricks

Though at a bargain rate."

There are two things beside contentment which contribute to happiness. One is the disposition to be cheerful and look on the bright side of things; the other, a heart free from enmity, at peace with itself and all mankind.

The Easter anniversary, which will be celebrated tomorrow, all over Christendom, is occasion for both joy and peace, for it bears the stamp of victory, as well as of immortality.

In the ruins of an old castle, buried 3,000 years ago, was found an urn, containing a handful of corn. The seed was planted, and in due time the soil and seed conspired together, under the magic influence of divine touch, and out of the ground little shoots of life appeared.

For 30 centuries the pulse of life had been dormant in the kernel of seed, but it yet lived and after its long slumber came forth to pay a tribute to the Creator and Preserver.

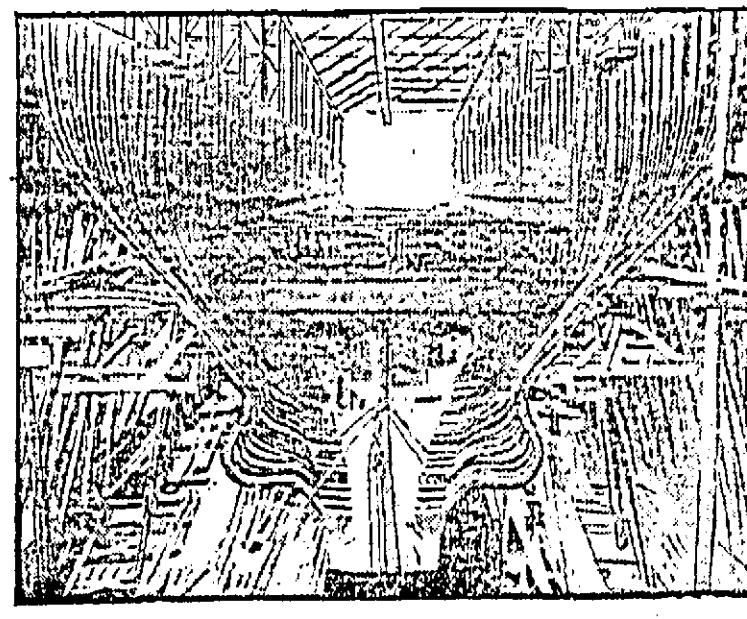

Less marvelous, because more common, is nature's annual panorama which transforms the gray woods and somber landscape to budding trees and carpeted fields, at Easter time.

These evidences of new life are shouts of victory, unheard by mortal ears, yet so eloquently expressed that they fill the world with hope and joy.

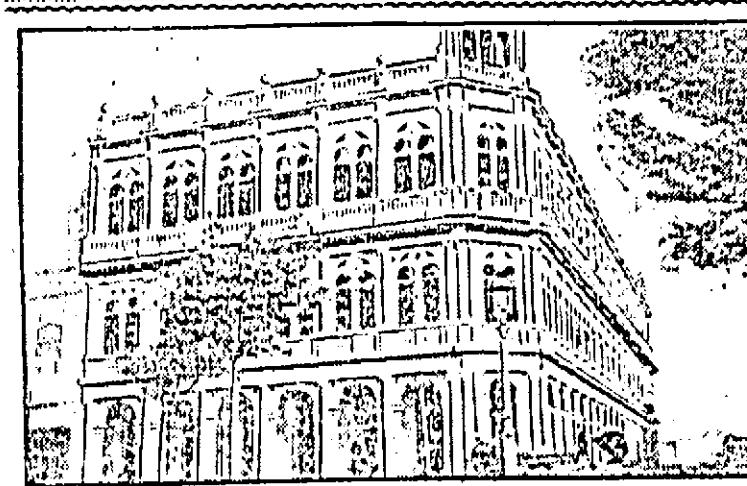

The president is being both enlightened and criticized just now, because of his attitude on the navy, and his desire to make it more formidable.

The argument is used that universal peace should be established and all armies and navies disbanded. Ideal conditions, but more theoretical than practical. The "big stick" and preparation for war in times of peace, master his own passion, would doubtless do a great deal more.—Montezuma.

CLERK'S CLUB AT HAVANA.

Havana, Cuba, April 18.—This city contains one of the most remarkable clubs in the world—the clerks' club with a membership of 27,000 men. This club was started 25 years ago by 12 clerks here, who were of good families, but for one reason or another were employed in the various stores about the city. They had no home influence and banded themselves together for a betterment of conditions. The club grew rapidly and now comprises 27,000 members. The expense connected with it is $1.50 per month.

They have just completed a new $200,000 building, which is shown above. This is finished in Italian marble and is thoroughly modern structure. It includes a night school and a saloon for ladies. It has an immense ballroom on the top floor, and the members pride themselves on the magnificence of their directors' room. The club still retains its cooperative features and is not only the most popular club in Cuba, but is a club which would bear emulation in the American cities.

MUST PAY FOR LATHERS' COLT

LA PRAIRIE FIRE INSURANCE CO. LOSES ITS CASE.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

Yesterday Were of Particular Interest to This Section of the State.

Several decisions handed down by the Wisconsin Supreme Court yesterday are of interest to Gazette readers. Judge Grimm's judgment for the plaintiff was affirmed in the action of Lathers vs. the Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of the town of La Prairie. The case was tried here about a year ago and Atty. H. W. Adams of Beloit and Atty. T. S. Nolan of this city, who are now partners, were arrayed on opposite sides. A colt belonging to Lathers had been loaned out for two or three months to a farmer residing about eight miles from the Lathers farm and was destroyed, along with other livestock, by a fire which burned up the neighbor's barn. The insurance company set up the claim that its responsibility ceased when a "risk" was removed so far away from its regular stamping-ground, but Judge Grimm decided otherwise and the company was instructed to pay half the value of the horse.

Litts vs. Goss.

Under the act creating the Beloit municipal court, the appeal from Judge Rosa's decision in the case of Litts vs. Goss, involving commission on real estate transaction, was taken direct to the supreme court and that tribunal affirmed the finding of the lower court.

In 1905 the defendant, Goss, owned a farm located between Janesville and Beloit. About that time he had negotiations with a man named Woodstock for the sale of his property but nothing came of them.

Subsequently he authorized the firm of W. J. Litts of this city to be a member to offer the place for sale.

The local firm advertised the property along with other parcels of real estate in the newspapers and made various other efforts to dispose of it but made no sale. In the spring of 1906 Woodstock and Goss met at the horse-sale barns in Beloit and again talked about the property. Woodstock agreeing to go and look it over. Mounting his attention was attracted by one of Mr. Litts' advertisements in the Gazette and came here to make further inquiries regarding some of the offerings. When Mr. Litts told him about the Goss farm, he said that he knew all about that property. Nevertheless he was persuaded to drive out to this farm with Mr. Litts and the latter tried to sell it to him. Woodstock once more failed to close any deal, but some time later he met Goss again and bought the property of him. The question as to whether or not Mr. Litts was entitled to $100 commission was immediately raised and he secured judgment for the amount in a Janesville justice court. An appeal was taken to the Beloit municipal court where Judge Rosa reversed the judgment of the lower court, on the theory advanced by Attorney E. D. McLowan, who represented Goss, that the sale was consummated through negotiations which had been in progress before the farm was put in the hands of the agency, and that the latter played no vital part in the transaction.

Atty. J. J. Cunningham who represented Litts was dissatisfied with Judge Rosa's findings and appealed. Under the supreme court decision, the appellant, Mr. Litts, will get no commission and will have to pay the costs of the action. It was an unusual case and there was only one other on record in the state which in any way resembled it.

Other Cases.

The appeal of the defendant in the action of George Tallman vs. the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. from the decision whereby the plaintiff was to recover nearly $100 for the loss of a dress suit case left in the baggage-room over night, and the appeal of the defendant from the decision for the plaintiff in the condemnation proceedings of Floyd Murdoch et al vs. Beloit, Delavan Lake, & Janesville Interurban Ry. Co. (the familiar "loop" action) which were to be taken up yesterday, were "passed" for future consideration.

In the Green county Umburger cheese action of Wommer vs. Martly, the supreme tribunal reversed the judgment of the lower court and the cause was remanded for a new trial. This constituted a victory for the local law firm of Joffris, Monat, Smith & Avery who were counsel for the appellant.

In the matter of the petition to establish a drainage district of the 35,000 acre Horicon marsh area in Dodge county, the supreme court reversed the decision of the trial court that such a district could be created and remanded the proceeding with directions to dismiss the petition. Justices Timlin and Bradford dissented from this decision. Hudsford Lake and Rock river are held to be navigable and authority to interfere with the big duck-hunting reserve is denied to adjacent property owners.

THREE ROUSING CHEERS "FANNED" DAVE BROWN

Landlord of the Galt House at Sterling, as He Arose for the Second Time to Orate on Baseball.

David B. Young, former manager of the Grand hotel in this city and now proprietor of the Galt House at Sterling, Ill., was the first speaker on the program at a big farewell banquet tendered by the Sterling baseball fans on Tuesday evening to Joseph Killian, who is soon to assume his duties as captain of the La Crosse baseball team in the Wisconsin State League. Says the Sterling Standard: "Mr. Young, upon his first time at bat (the spoke twice), made a hit. On his second time up, he was "fanned" with three rousing cheers." Elsewhere in the account Mr. Young is represented as discussing baseball prospects in Sterling and offering to do all he could for the advancement of the game.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR EASTER SERVICES

Will Be Held at 3:30 P. M.—Waiting Knights, Masons, and General Public Invited—Services at Evansville.

Annual Easter services of Janesville Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, will be held at the Masonic Temple at half past three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. All Masons and their families as well as the general public are cordially invited to attend and all sojourning Sir Knights are urged to participate in the services. The annual address will be delivered by Circuit Judge George Grimm, who is a member of Watertown Commandery.

The Knights will be in full uniform excepting the sword and it is expected that the membership of 100 will be largely represented. There will be special music by a quartet composed of E. O. Klabeney, George Drummond, Harry Garbutt, and John Lloyd, and Mrs. William Sherer will act as piano accompanist.

Commander R. J. Hart, Generalissimo P. H. Kors, Standard Bearer William Farmer, Warde L. S. Duley, and others will go to Evansville in the morning to assist in the services to be held by the Evansville section of the Janesville Commandery at the Congregational church at half past ten o'clock. Rev. D. Quincy Grimm decided to make other repairs at his factory and bottling works and his generator was sent to Chicago to be reconditioned, a new floor was placed in the bottling rooms and other plans made for the summer campaign. Meanwhile the well known drinkers, the man who likes ginger ale "on the side," are anxiously waiting for the resumption of manufacture of their favorite drink. When the factory shut down they had eight hundred cases on hand, but all that is left now is a small amount of ginger ale and sphon water.

RE-ASSESSMENT IN ONLY THREE CASES

Those Who Did Not File Claims Against City For Riverview Park Grading Have No Redress.

Under Judge Grimm's decision in the case of F. W. Hahn vs. the City of Janesville, re-assessment will be made only in the cases of the three property owners—Hahn, F. W. Christman, and William Dettinger, who brought actions against the city. "The nine months statute of limitations," said Judge Grimm, "will prevent those who filed no claims from taking advantage of the illegal character of the original assessment." Assessments were made with most of the others who suffered to any great extent, no great injustice will be done.

A PECCULAR FAMINE APPEARED IN CITY

During the Past Week "Soft Drinks" Were at a Premium in Many Places.

One would hardly expect a famine to be reported in Janesville, particularly a "soft drink" one, but just at present the city is in the throes of such a trouble and it will not be relieved until Tuesday next. It started three weeks ago, but its intensity was not fully appreciated until the latter part of the present week. It was all due to a leak in one of Charles Gray's tanks in which he concocts all sorts of fluids which are known, to the trade as, white, brown and red pop, water beer, ginger ale and seltzer water. Gray's factory is at 54 Locust street and as soon as the leak was discovered an order was hurried to Chicago for block tin to repair it. But Chicago happened to be out of block tin. St. Louis had none and it was necessary to send clear to New York for the materials to repair the insulation.

The Congregational Social club will hold a spring sale at the church parlor Wednesday afternoon and evening. Supper from 5:30 until all are served.

PAUL REVERE ON HIS RIDE, FROM A PAINTING BY J. STEEPLE DAVIS—HENRY W. LONGFELLOW WHOSE POEM MADE PAUL REVERE FAMOUS.

One hundred and thirty-three years ago tonight Paul Revere made his famous ride, advising the people in the vicinity of Boston of the proposed attack of the British regulars. This ride has been made famous by Longfellow's poem, "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere." He tells in a simple manner how Paul Revere on the eighteenth of April, 1775, in accordance with a prearranged signal in the old North Church at Boston, rode and spread the alarm.

"Through every Middlesex village and farm,

For the country folk to be up and to arm."

Paul Revere was a gold and silver smith by trade and one of the twelve mechanics who banded themselves together as a vigilance committee to watch the British fleet then anchored in Boston harbor. That night it had been noticed that the British were preparing for trouble and his friends watched the maneuver closely while Revere rowed to Charlestown shore and there awaited the signal from the bell tower of old North Church.

At about midnight two lanterns appeared, and Revere galloped through the country to Lexington 12 miles distant, spreading the alarm on every hand. The day following occurred that first battle of American revolution, the battle of Lexington. History has chronicled the event which began the struggle for independence. The British were surprised by the minute men, who fired on them from every byway and lane, and were defeated. As we view this incident in American history we learn to appreciate more and more Longfellow's description. It is incorrect in many places but it carries the idea in a clear and concise manner.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

OPERATED BY ELECTRICITY.

Fender Can Be Instantly Dropped to Ground to Pick Up Victim.

In an electrically operated street-car fender, recently designed, a Colorado man comes very close to providing one which will actually serve the purpose for which it is intended. It is universally known that the majority of the fenders now used are a farce and utterly useless when put to the test. This can be accounted for by reason of the common custom of supporting the fender too high above the ground so that it will be sure to clear all obstructions. In emergencies, when the fender is needed to prevent injury to a person accidentally caught on the track, it proves valueless, rolling over the unfortunate instead of picking him up. The fender shown here is normally supported about a foot above the ground. When the motorman sees a person on the track and is unable to stop the car in time to avoid an accident he releases a convenient handle on the dashboard and the fender drops to within an inch or two of the ground. It is thus in a position to pick up the victim instead of passing over him. Electricity is employed to operate the movement of the fender.

NOVEL SUNSHADE.

Strapped to Shoulders, It Protects Back, Head and Face.

A contrivance of interest to farmers and gardeners is a sunshade designed and patented by a Texas man and shown in the illustration below. During the summer season farmers employ numerous devices to protect the head and body from the scorching rays of the sun. This contrivance would undoubtedly prove ample for the purpose, not only protecting the head and face, but also the back and shoulders. It is in the form of an umbrella, having an elongated section at the back, which extends to the hips of the wearer. It is supported by means of straps and hangs fitting over the shoulders and under the armpits. The hands and arms are thus not impeded in their movements, but can be freely moved in all directions. The wearer is also not hindered in stooping or bending.

Protects wearer from sun's rays.

NOVEL WASHING MACHINE.

Suction Cup Draws the Dirt Out of the Clothes.

An entirely new principle is introduced in a washing machine recently invented and patented by a Syracuse man. Instead of beating the dirt out of the clothes by pounding—the means employed in the majority of washing machines—it is drawn out by suction. As shown in the accompanying illustration, the clothes are placed in the tub of the washing machine in the usual way. At the back is a lever which operates an inverted cone-shaped suction cup. As the lever is pulled forward the suction cup descends, coming into contact with the water and clothes. By reversing the stroke of the lever, the suction of the cup acts upon the clothes to draw out the dirt. The apparatus is also constructed to be clamped to the ordinary laundry tub, being readily transferable from one to another as required.

Suction draws out dirt.

COALING APPARATUS.

Modern Method of Transferring Fuel From Lighter to Steamer.

The immense amount of work required to coal the modern ocean-going steamers or warships is not realized by the average layman. The present custom consists in transferring the coal by derrick from lighters in bags or buckets, requiring many days. A New York man has seized upon this opportunity to devise an up-to-date apparatus which immensely simplifies the operation and does away with much of the hard labor now necessary. As shown in the illustration, the coal is drawn up an inclined elevator and dropped into a chute, where it runs by gravity into the hold of the vessel. Within the elevator are numerous buckets attached to a movable chain. The buckets are filled as they run over the end winding drum and automatically dump the contents into the waiting chute when they reach the top.

ing is accomplished coincident with the cutting by the aid of a rule or scale which is attached to one of the blades of the scissors. The rule extends at right angles to the scissors, thus operator, guiding the scissors by means of the rule. This attachment should also prove of great advantage in department stores, where salesgirls as a rule are not overly careful to cut exact amount the customer desires, but are generally inclined to exceed, meaning loss to the proprietor.

MEASURES AND CUTS CLOTH.

Attachment by Which Scissors Do Accurate Cutting.

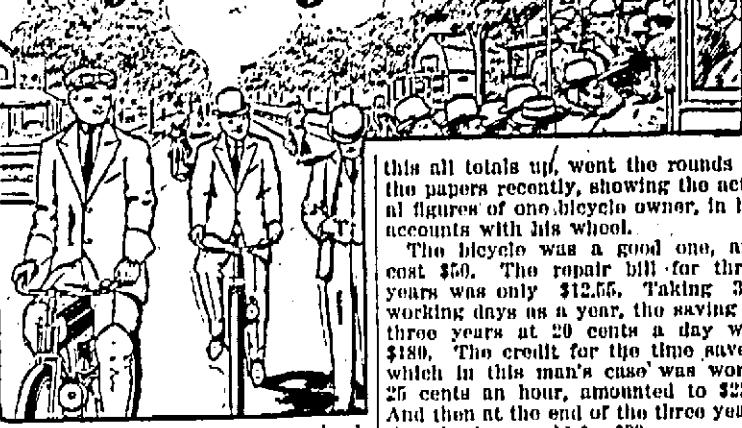

Even expert tailors—and dressmakers find it difficult to cut strips of cloth of even width without a slip occasionally, which, of course, means wasted cloth. In a device, patented by a California woman, the cutting can be quickly and accurately done without the necessity of measuring. As shown in the illustration, the measurement is held in place by the aid of a rule or scale which is attached to one of the blades of the scissors. The rule extends at right angles to the scissors, thus operator, guiding the scissors by means of the rule. This attachment should also prove of great advantage in department stores, where salesgirls as a rule are not overly careful to cut exact amount the customer desires, but are generally inclined to exceed, meaning loss to the proprietor.

Why the Cyclist Smiles

this all totals up, went the rounds of the papers recently, showing the actual figures of one bicyclist owner, in his account with his wheel.

The bicycle was a good one, and cost $50. The repair bill for three years was only $12.56. Taking 360 working days as a year, the saving in three years at 20 cents a day was $180. The credit for the time saved, which in this man's case was worth 25 cents an hour, amounted to $225. And then at the end of the three years the wheel was sold for $23.

A moment's use of pencil and paper will show that the net saving made was $365.45, or to put it in another fashion, the handy bicycle turned out a 700 per cent investment.

More Than Money Is Gained.

The shrewd reader will at once see that this saving is only the dollars and cents of the transaction. There was a gain in good red blood, improved circulation and better digestion, which cannot be estimated so easily.

Taken all in all, what other possession—costing so little money, is able to give such returns in health and economy as the bicycle or the motorcycle? It is not a matter of argument at all. Every rider of a decade ago knows he felt better, slept better, and actually was better physically, when he used the wheel daily. And those who have taken up the wheel again, and those who have never stopped riding, understand perfectly well "Why the Cyclist Smiles."

Coincident with the return of the bicycle, the motorcycle has rapidly increased in popularity, though it is hardly fair to either machine to class them together. The motorcycle long ago passed out of the front class, or rather, it was quickly seen that the new vehicle must be accepted at a high valuation. While at first considered largely as a sporting proposition, its reliability, either for sustained effort or a short burst of speed, together with the absolute independence it confers upon its rider, quickly gave the motorcycle its most enviable reputation.

Aesop's Fables.

Fables spring from the universal need of men to express their thoughts by concrete images and emblems, and is practically coequal with humanity itself—the east, the land of myth, is the natural home of the fable. From Hindustan the Sanskrit fables passed to China, Tibet and Persia, reaching Greece at an early period, since it is now known that many of the fables which passed as Aesop's are identical with those of the east.—New York American.

Flaw in Sound Advice.

It has been said that we make a mistake in prescribing special hours for going to bed and getting up, and it would be a better way to follow the example of the dog and take an occasional nap when we have nothing better to do. Lovely. But how about "the eternal buttoning and unbuttoning," and the making of toilets, from which life长短 is immune, save in high-bred circles?

LOCAL FACTORY
TO BE UTILIZEDNEW CEMENT CURBING MAY BE MANUFACTURED HERE.

H. H. CLOUGH PLANS COMPANY

Which Will Have Its Workshops on Wheels—Three Cars Being Fitted Up Now.

H. H. Clough, who built the Rockford Interurban between this city and Rockford, and who is interested in the Janesville Cement Post company of this city, is organizing a million-dollar company which will manufacture concrete specialties. His idea is a unique one and instead of locating factories in different cities he will install them in large freight cars of the furniture car pattern, which can be moved from city to city as the demand calls for them. Three of these are to be placed in operation this summer and later he expects to have at least a hundred in operation, working in the northern states during the summer and the southern states in the winter.

To Make Curbing

"Mr. Clough has perfected a cement curbing," said D. S. Schubert, manager of the Janesville Cement Post company, this morning, "that bids fair to revolutionize the curbing business throughout the country. He plans to have a curbing and masonry plant at Amherst, Ohio, where there is a great quantity of granite boulders which will be crushed to make the surface of the curbing. This curb is made in a pressed steel mould and is to be steam cured. It has male and female ends which will make it imperious to frost and setting. Mr. Clough's advisors inform him that the curb can be made cheaper by his moving workshop on wheels than by the contractor on the ground.

Janesville Plant

"Ultimately the local factory will make these curbings, drawings and plans for which have already been received," Mr. Clough has installed a mould-maker at Amherst with a pressure of one hundred and fifty tons to the square inch and expects to have his portable workshops ready for the summer work, three of which will be placed in operation as an experiment and later more as they are needed. The new company will work in connection with the Thorpe Asphalt people of Cleveland, in the northern states in the summer and in the southern states in the winter. Plywood and Cleveland capitalists are interested with him.

Other Articles

"Mr. Clough's company will also manufacture cement posts similar to those made here and cement building blocks." The project has been under consideration for sometime and Mr. Clough has now begun actual operation of his plan which has been minutely worked out for a year past. The local company may manufacture some of the curbing this summer as samples of the work. This curbing is made in blocks, ready to be fitted into each other and can then be easily laid instead of being formed on the ground by moulds as is now the custom.

Claim Ancient Lineage.
Native historians of Afghanistan assert that the inhabitants of their country are the lost ten tribes of Israel. According to these chroniclers, the Afghans are descended from Afghanistan, who was the son of a certain Jeremiah, who was the son of a King Saul. The eastward removal of the seed of Afghanistan is attributed to Nebuchadnezzar.

HIGHEST PRAISE.

Some Janesville Citizens Give Enthusiastic on the Subject.
The praise of the public is merit's just reward.
Nothing in modern times has received the praise accorded "The Little Conqueror." Of some kinds of praise we are skeptical.

We doubt the praise of strangers. The highest praise for Janesville public is hearty expression from Janesville people.

Doan's Kidney Pills are endorsed in Janesville.

No better proof of merit can be had. Here's a case of it. We have plenty more like it.

Mrs. H. F. Jones, of 157 Western Ave., Janesville, Wis., says:

"I was not free from attacks of backache for a single day during several years past. I used so many remedies without getting any relief that I came to the conclusion that nothing would help me and stopped trying. I went about all bent over, could not straighten up at all and had a dull pain across the loins and a feeling of weakness that made it hard for me even to rise from a chair. At night I would awaken with the feeling that a great weight was breaking my back, and anyone who has suffered from kidney trouble will know what torture I endured. Finally I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and wondered if there was really any use of trying another remedy, but seeing them recommended by people in Janesville I purchased a box at the People's Drug Co. and began using them. Gradually I regained strength and the pains and aches gradually disappeared. Since I have discontinued their use I have not had an attack of backache nor any symptom of kidney trouble, and I believe Doan's Kidney Pills worthy of all the praise that I can give them."

THE CAPTAIN
OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.
Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

"We are making about six knots, I fancy. If we are lucky and avoid any storm rocks we should see daylight before we reach the coast. That is our sole hope. The ship is in a powerful tidal current, and it is high water at 5:30 a.m. At a rough estimate Ham Island is twenty knots distant. Now you know all. The outcome is mere guesswork."

"Why did the furnaces blow up?" "I was cross examining Tony on that point when you came in. He deserved his opinion. My own view is that, by accident or design, some explosive substance found its way into the coal."

"Sham, Ham and Japheth! Explosive substance! Do you mean dynamite or gunpowder or that sort of thing?"

"Something of the kind. That is only a supposition, but when I whistled it to Walker he agreed."

"Walker! Is he the man who speaks so querulously?"

"If you ever go to Newcastle, don't put it that way. I told him to take Miss Maxwell to her cabin. Did he do so?"

"Yes, I have not seen her since, so I assume that the bronchitis plus the wine was effective. Well, I must return to my patient. Can I get you anything? I am a storekeeper, you know."

"No, thanks."

"Nothing to eat or drink?"

"Nothing. I shall be ready for a square meal when I am able to come below not before."

Christobal smiled. Though he was a brave man, he thought such persistent optimism was out of place. Nevertheless he could emulate Courtney's coolness.

"Let me know when you are ready. I am an excellent cook," he said.

Then the captain of the Kansas resumed his smoking and humming, with occasional glances at the clock and the compass and the barometer. At 2 o'clock he felt the ship slipping from under the wheel. The compass showed that she was heading a couple of points eastward. He helped her and telephoned instantly to Walker:

"Go forward and try if you can make out anything. Report to me here."

"Aye, aye, sir!" came the reply, and anon Walker appeared.

"It's made thick ahead, sir, but I think we are passing an island to port," said he.

"I thought so. You had better remain here, Walker. We have not long to wait now for the dawn, and four eyes are better than two."

Walker imagined that the skipper was ready for a chat.

"Things are in a dreadful mess here, sir. I can't make head or tail of the snarl."

"Well, that must wait. Don't talk. Keep a sharp lookout."

The engineer could not guess that the captain's pulse was beating a trifle more rapidly with a certain elation. They were undoubtedly passing White Horse Island. It revealed its presence by defecating the tremendous sea river which ferried the Kansas onward at such a rate. In fifteen or twenty minutes Courtney expected to find indications of a more northerly set of the tide, and he watched the compass intently for the first sign of this return to the former course. If the ship crossed the current one way or the other she would certainly be driven ashore on some outlying spur of the island or detached sunken reef; hence he must actually guess his way, with something of the acquired sense of the blind, because the slight chance of ultimate escape for the ship and her occupants rested wholly on the assumption that some ocean byway was leading her to a deep water inlet, where it might be possible to drop the anchor.

In eighteen minutes or thereabouts the needle moved slightly. Courtney once more assisted the ship with the helm. She steadied herself, and the compass pointed due northeast again.

Walker, though an engineer, knew enough of navigation to recognize the apparent impossibility of the captain being able to steer with any real knowledge of his surroundings. The wheel twisting therefore savored of magic, but his orders were to look ahead, and he obeyed.

Soon he thought he could discern an irregular pink crescent, with the concave side downward, somewhere in the blackness beyond the bows. Speedily it was joined by two others equally irregular and somewhat lower.

"Captain, d'ye see you?" he asked in a voice tremulous with awe.

"Yes. That is the sun just catching the summits of snow topped hills. It is not only foretells the dawn, but it is buying Easter eggs to be sure. To know what is inside, for otherwise you're apt to get the egg that long since dyed. Find a hen."

Almost without warning the ship was found to be entering the estuary of a narrow fjord. Gaunt headlands carved on a titanic scale out of the solid rock guarded the entrance and already shut out the more distant coast line. Behind these first massive walls, everywhere unscalable and rising in separate promontories to altitudes of perhaps 400 feet, an inner fortification of precipitous mountains hung its glacier clad peaks heavenward to immense heights—heights which in that region soared far above the snow line.

But if the crests of peak upon peak were clothed in white their bases were garment of different texture. Save on the seaward terraces of stark rock, with their tide marked bases of weed covered boulders, the deepest vegetation known to mankind imposed everywhere a first barrier to human progress far more unconquerable than the awesome range beyond. Plus forts of extraordinary density crammed each available yard of space until the true growth yielded no force to the winds of the north.

"Step-lively-people," these folks who do business through want ads—it gets into the blood! And good offers find quick takers—yours will, if want-advertised here.

Now, don't be too talkative or you might swank yo' face!"

With this Particular shaft of humor we banished toward the forenoon, whence the ubiquitous donkey boiler through one of its long arms would shoot forth the stockless anchors at the touch of a lever. Tollenmache, who had already glimpsed the coast, strolled out on deck and beat well over the side in order to look more directly ahead. He could see one-half only of the view, but that sufficed.

"A respite," he growled to himself— "penal servitude instead of sudden death."

And indeed this was the true aspect of things, as Courtney discovered when he had successfully brought the ship past three ugly reefs and dropped anchor in the backwater of a small sheltered bay. He speedily abandoned the half formed hope that the Kansas might have run into an ocean waterway which communicated with Smyth channel. The rampart of snow clad hills had no break, while a hasty scrutiny of the chart showed him that the eastern coast of Hanover Island had been thoroughly surveyed. Yet it was not in human nature that he should not experience a rush of joy at the thought that by his own efforts he had saved his ship and some at least of the lives intrusted to his care. He was alone when the music of the chimes in the binnacle pipes sounded in his ears. The Kansas had plenty of room to swing, but he thought it best to moor her. Believing implicitly now that he would yet bring his vessel to the Thames, he allowed her to be carried round by the fast flowing tide until her nose pointed seaward and she lay in the comparatively still water inshore. Then he dropped the anchor and stepped forth from the chart house. His long vigil was ended. Some of the cloud of care lifted from his face, and he called cheerfully to Joey.

"Come along, pup," he said. "Let us sample Dr. Christobal's cookery. You have shared my watch; now you shall my breakfast. We have both earned it."

It was in his mind to knock loudly on Elsie's door and awaken her. Therefore he was dimly conscious of a feeling of disappointment when he saw her in company with Christobal, leaning over the rail of the promenade deck and evidently discussing the weird beauty of the scene spread before her wondering eyes. They heard Courtney's approaching footsteps at most no soon as he gained the deck.

Instantly she ran toward him, with hands outstretched.

FORTY YEARS AGO

JANESEVILLE Gazette, April 18, 1868.—A Suggestion.—It is gratifying to know thus early, that there are several persons who are willing to furnish a name for the expectant fire steamer. Now, however pleasant it might be for any of these gentlemen or their friends to see their names emphasized thus, is it not possible that good policy will dictate differently? Many of the best men in the city believe that a steam fire department in a city of this size will be a costly experiment, and result in inevitable failure at last, so that at the end of two years the city will have a steamer to sell. If this be so, let me have a name that will not be inappropriate for any other town that may be inclined to make a like experiment after we shall have learned better, by experience. One of the People.

We conclude the "One Of The People" is decidedly opposed to a steam fire engine, but if he ever "means the break" at the be he is an exception and not the general rule among those who are opposed to the project.
